

1E Lowering A Company's Energy Use One PC At A Time

Published: May 18, 2010

Sumir Karayi, CEO of 1E has decided to tackle one of the world's biggest problems, energy use. Through his software solutions, Karayi is helping technologically intensive companies improve their power management capabilities, lower their energy consumption and save millions of dollars. The 1E team has already saved their clients (which range from Dell to SABMiller) more than $360 million and they're only just gotten started. Our interview discusses 1E's different offerings and what Karayi thinks about this growing sector.